

Mr. S & The Sandbox Band

- Music for everyone, tailored for kids

About Us

Taylor Stichka is known simply as Mr. S by a host of former first graders in central Iowa. Understandably, Stichka can be somewhat troublesome to pronounce for a new reader. A First Grade classroom is also the place where Taylor began writing songs for kids. We all know that 6 year-olds are perfectly attentive under any circumstances, but Taylor found that they were more engaged when music entered the equation. The songs he had written also proved to be acceptable listening material for older kids as well (and even MUCH older 'kids'). Mr. S no longer teaches in a classroom, but he shares his love of music with many dozens of students that take lessons at his burgeoning music studio, and with anyone who cares to listen to the music he writes and performs with his talented friends known, collectively, as 'The Sandbox Band.' Mr. S & The Sandbox Band firmly believe that kids are smarter and more perceptive than most musicians in the genre give them credit for. They make their music accordingly. They also strive to make music that they, themselves, would happily listen to (even if the kids weren't around).
